2011 - A LOOK AHEAD – PART I

There is just so much on the horizon right now, that I thought we'd look ahead to consider some of the trends that are likely to influence coming events. Our world is changing; both rapidly and radically. The forces of Antichrist are on the march. One Worlders and New Agers and Illuminati and Freemason types are being joined by Islamists and radicals and communists / socialists and universalists and the various cultists of every stripe. Manipulators of the economy are as important to the coming story as are useful idiots; the ostriches and purposely ignorant. Yet as we studied these trends we can begin to see the outline perhaps of where this is all headed.

“Then He also said to the multitudes, “Whenever you see a cloud rising out of the west, immediately you say, ‘A shower is coming’; and so it is. And when you see the south wind blow, you say, ‘There will be hot weather’; and there is. Hypocrites! You can discern the face of the sky and of the earth, but how is it you do not discern this time?”” (Luke 12:54-56)

THE ECONOMY

Glen Beck, Hal Lindsey (of The Late Great Planet Earth fame), our friends at the very accurate European think tank, LEAP 20/20 and host of other economic experts all agree. We are in for a rough ride ahead. Does that make it so? Of course not! But there is ample evidence that we are about to face a major economic and financial sea change that will alter the way we live here in America. It will affect, drastically, our standard of living, as well as the relative power of the United States on the world stage. So for starters let's look at what LEAP 20/20 had to say in their analysis published in December of 2010. [If you recall these were the folks – along with future trends analyst Gerald Celente - that we quoted here on many occasions – warning of the oncoming crisis beginning long months before it actually hit in 2008.] They give the economy until about the third quarter of next year before it goes critical. “The second half of 2011 will mark the point in time when all the world's financial operators will finally understand that the West will not repay in full a significant portion of the loans advanced over the last two decades...it is, in effect, around October 2011, due to the plunge of a large number of US cities and states into an inextricable financial situation following the end of the federal funding of their deficits, whilst Europe will face a very significant debt refinancing requirement, that this explosive situation will be fully revealed.” So where does that take us? “We therefore anticipate the progression of the terminal crash of Western public debt (in particular US and European debt.)”

That's going to leave a pretty nasty mark. The emerging sovereign debt crisis, (the inability of national governments to manage their national debts), will be driven by “the absence of economic recovery in the United States.” The US and other Western countries affected in the same way, will find it increasingly difficult to borrow money. [That fact is already having its affect in Europe. Hungary has just seized $14 billion of their citizen's personal pensions in order to prop up government finances. Bulgaria did the same with a smaller amount of early retirement savings accounts. And now Poland is moving in the same direction.] For America, this will likely lead to a crisis, in both the reality and perception of our national power. Thus LEAP sees “the accelerated structural weakening of the United States in monetary, financial as well as diplomatic affairs.” And you can add to that the fact that without money we will be unable to project power militarily in the ways to which it has become accustomed. In other words, they see the United States as going through the necessary adjustments of a shrinking giant.<sup>1 2</sup>

But is that just the opinion of some anti-American European intellectuals? Not so! Mike Whitney, writing in the Market Oracle titled one article: Post Mortem for the world's 'Reserve Currency'. To his way of thinking the US signed the dollar's death warrant when it decided to basically print money – substantially expanding the money supply – and therefore driving down the value of the dollar. Former Fed Chief Paul Volcker warns that we've already lost “relative economic strength” and the ability to execute “a successful governing model.” The end game for Volcker could soon extend to “the end of economic and political hegemony.”<sup>3</sup> That should be pretty scary to any American alive today. There has never been a period in our lifetimes when the US was not the top dog; or when we were in danger of being dictated to by other powers.

You see, that's the real problem. Tyler Durden of Zero Hedge agrees, warning of the danger of hyperinflation, asserting that the “dollar decline will accelerate in 2011”, driving gold to “unthinkable heights”. Governments around the world are behaving in an unsustainable manner by “issuing debt that will never be repaid by normal money.” In the event, that will lead to a gold shortage.<sup>4</sup> Knowing all this, and anxious to protect themselves, better positioned nations like the Chinese are on a gold-buying spree. Their purchases were up by 26% last year and are expected to rise even faster in 2011.<sup>5</sup> John Williams of ShadowStats.com has probably put the most apocalyptic face on it. Here's his take given at the beginning of December of 2010. “A Great Collapse. The U.S. economic and systemic solvency crises of the last two years are just precursors to a Great Collapse: a hyperinflationary great depression. Such will reflect a complete collapse in the purchasing power of the U.S. dollar, a collapse in the normal stream of U.S. commercial and economic activity, a collapse in the U.S. financial system as we know it, and a likely realignment of the U.S. political environment.”<sup>6</sup> When the hyperinflation comes – as it likely will – it will smash the savings and lifestyles of ordinary citizens, driving commodities ever higher. If in reaction to some event, the price of oil doubles in a day, panic buying would set in, making a further doubling more likely than not. One market analyst says $15 per gallon gasoline would not be out of the question. Gold and silver – along with “oil [and] foodstuffs – will shoot the moon.”<sup>7</sup>

Finally, let's look at the words of Gerald Celente. The Future Meister sees America going through a “fundamental shift”. He warns us, “America's going to go through a transition the likes of which no one is prepared for.”<sup>8</sup> As for Celente's economic forecast; it mirrors that of the others we've looked at. “Crack-Up 2011 In 2011, with the bailout funds and arsenal of other schemes to prop up the economy depleted, teetering economies will collapse, currency wars will ensue, trade barriers will be erected, economic unions will splinter, and the onset of the "Greatest Depression" (a trend we forecasted before the massive bailouts existed) will be recognized by everyone.”<sup>9</sup>

FOOD STUFF

There's two things we've got to note when we start talking about food. Prices are likely to go up – due to shortages...and, what we do produce will come under increasing government control. Headline: “All Evidence Points To A Dramatic Increase In Food Prices Worldwide, Possible Shortages.” Dry weather across the world is driving up the cost of corn and soybeans and wheat.<sup>10</sup> Even the New York Times recently offered a doomsday scenario with this title. “Global Food Prices in 2011 Face Perilous Rise.” The article went on to say, “Food prices globally are rising to dangerous levels. There is talk of a coming crisis, like the ones that produced riots around the world in 2008 and 1974.”<sup>11</sup> So much for the shortage part!

As you read this, legislation is moving forward that would assert centralized federal control over the American food supply – all in the name of protecting us from ‘food terror’. The Food Safety Modernization Act would even – in the studied opinion of many who've looked at the legislation – remove “the right of Americans to grow their own food.” This would benefit no one but the agri-business giants – (like Monsanto) – and the New World Order types that sit in bureaucratic offices and do their bidding. John Griffing, writes in The American Thinker: “The FSMA doesn't merely wrest control of the food supply from citizens. Dangerously, the FSMA proceeds to transfer U.S. food sovereignty to the WTO, with one provision reading, 'Nothing in this Act shall be construed in a manner inconsistent with the agreement establishing the World Trade Organization or any other treaty or international agreement to which the U.S. is a party.' This provision is significant, since the WTO draws all its food safety standards from the controversial Codex

Alimentarius, which is thought by some to be a vast postwar scheme to control the world's population by means of food. The bottom line vis-à-vis food is that Americans lose control, and foreign bureaucrats gain control."<sup>12</sup>

WARS & RUMORS & STUFF

Biblical prophecy is generally centered on Israel and the Middle East. Keep that in mind as we consider the fact that Jesus Himself – as well as the Prophets – made some very specific predictions about what would be happening as we approach the end of the age. So let's quickly survey the dangers that are extant in that critical area of the world.

ISRAEL – “Then he shall confirm a covenant with many for one week: But in the middle of the week he shall bring an end to sacrifice and offering. And on the wing of abominations shall be one who makes desolate, even until the consummation, which is determined, is poured out on the desolate.” (Daniel 9:27) The “covenant” that’s being talked about here is likely when the international community and the coming world leader called the Antichrist confirm Israel’s right to exist. Now, we don’t know exactly what will lead up to that – but we do know that much of the world is trying desperately to get a Middle East peace deal done that will settle things between the Israelis and the Palestinians. It will likely result, at least temporarily, in a faux Palestinian state that will be eventually destroyed. (see Obadiah 1) This destruction will likely be part of what I call the Psalm 83 War, wherein the inner ring of Israel’s Arab neighbors attempt once more to destroy the Jewish state, driving its citizens into the sea. Before and after, the world will continue to concern itself with the future of Jerusalem, much to its detriment. (Zechariah 12:2-3) We can watch for more pressure to be put on Israel to relinquish East Jerusalem to a future Palestine, or at the very least some form of international control – perhaps under the colluding forces of the UN and the Vatican. All of this is kind of the big picture. What follows is a bit of an analysis of what is happening on some of the contributing fronts.

PALESTINE & LEBANON – Right now, the movement to recognize Palestine as a separate, independent state is gaining momentum. A battery of South American nations have already done so, and the UN has made noises in that direction. In related developments the Obama administration is pressing Israel to give up much of the Golan to Syria and make a deal on Jerusalem while moving back to the borders that existed before the 1967 War. Meanwhile, the UN presence has been little help in Lebanon, where UNIFIL – their peace keeping force there – has looked the other way while Hezbollah insinuated themselves into the Lebanese armed forces and collected a modernized arsenal of at least 60,000 rockets and missiles. Now two employees of the British consulate in Jerusalem have been arrested; implicated in a plot launch a missile attack against Jerusalem’s Teddy Stadium.<sup>13 14 15</sup>

THE MAGOG ALLIANCE – Ezekiel 38 describes a Last Day’s alliance that will invade Israel after a period of peace is established. We know from Scripture that Iran is part of this grouping as is Turkey. There’s some debate as to whether Russia is included or whether it takes the role of King of the North referenced in Daniel 11. The alliance will be filled out by such outlying Islamic nations as Libya and the former Islamic Soviet Republics. Whether Russia is in or out, there has been a lot of movement on this front recently. During 2010 Turkey made a dramatic turn from favoring Israel and the West to a more pro-fundamentalist-Islamic position. Meanwhile Tehran moves closer to acquiring the ability to produce its own nuclear weapons. In December last, Tehran announced it could produce its own yellowcake uranium. And now Western intelligence services suspect that Iran is cooperating with the North Koreans to arrange an Iranian nuclear weapons test. Of course Israel, and to a degree the US, is taking none of this lying down. The Stuxnet computer virus – of ‘mysterious origin’ – ahem – has invaded the computer systems of Iran’s nuclear program and Iranian atomic scientists are disappearing. Private information acquired by prophecy scholar Jimmy De Young suggests that Netanyahu has determined - in the words of Bill Salus – “two red lines Israel would not allow Iran to cross.” These include delivery by Russia of the S-300 missile defense system and the “acquisition of a weapon of mass destruction.” Now there’s a little complicating factor to all of this. The Saudis, - no friend of the Israelis are pretty concerned too about the prospect of a nuclear Iran, able to call the shots in the region. You see the Iranians are Shiites and the Saudis are Sunni. Lot’s of bad blood there. [That makes for another, somewhat unrelated powder keg in religiously mixed Iraq – when the US presence is absent. American nemesis and Iranian client, Muqtada al Sadr, has just returned to Iraq; a power play in anticipation of the looming American withdrawal.<sup>16</sup>] The Saudi’s fears have led them to quietly let Netanyahu know that Saudi defenses would stand down if Israel chose to attack Iran by flying over a small corridor of the kingdom. Then there’s this development. It’s being reported that Pakistan has made available 2 nuclear warheads for use by Saudi Arabia should the need arise. The Arab Kingdom has already taken delivery of “a quantity” of medium range Pakistani missiles. Mmmmm!<sup>17 18 19 20</sup> Any of these situations is just an incident away from breaking out into a major regional war. As the Arab forces gather larger quantities of more sophisticated weapons, their confidence will grow to the point where they will begin to believe, once again, that they can really defeat the Israelis. Recall that we ran a series here at the beginning of last year that revealed Masonic / Illuminati plans for a war that would break out involving Israel and spread to the Far East on its way to becoming a bit of a world war, with the limited use of nuclear and eventually – after a pause – nuclear weapons. Though not necessarily this year, forces in this region are fast lining up to fulfill a number of Biblical prophecies. It is a dangerous time indeed!

KOREA & CHINA & STUFF - Then just add in these couple of hot spots from the Far East. North Korea is PLAYING with nuclear fire...and sometimes getting REAL with the conventional stuff. And we’ve mentioned here often how its in the Illuminati plan to foment a nuclear crisis on the Korean Peninsula. Now China is developing a capability to challenge the American carrier-based hegemony in the region with new missile technology. This will likely force the US to pull back a bit, reinforcing what a deteriorating economic position may already make necessary. And as this went to press, pictures and reports were surfacing of China’s first stealth fighters, giving support to the notion that their military aviation program is making great strides in closing the gap with the US.<sup>21</sup> No Japan’s Kyodo News published this scary revelation. “The Chinese military will consider launching a preemptive nuclear strike if the country finds itself faced with a critical situation in a war with another nuclear state, internal documents showed Wednesday.”<sup>22</sup> (Would that then apply to a showdown with America over what China sees as it’s long-lost province; American ally Taiwan?) Then there’s Venezuela. Hugo Chavez, our self-sworn enemy has just picked up hundreds of missiles from Russia. Now why would he need that? And you can throw in Mexico too. The drug violence there is already spilling over the border into the US, as we dither and delay taking any serious action to secure our borders.

Next time we’ll continue by looking at some other areas in which the prophetic agenda is advancing.
